The meeting of the Weman's Relief Corps, auxiliary to John A. Logan Post, No. 7, G. A. R., of Anacostia, which was held last right at their rooms in the Masonic Hall, was numerously attended, and much business of an interesting character conducted. An event of the evening was a visit by the department officers, viz: Mrs. Anna M. Hamilton, president; Mrs. Elizabeth Mon-Roberts, junior vice president; Mrs. M. H. Fuller, treasurer; Mrs. N. G. Davis, secretary; Mrs. M. M. North, chaplain, and Mrs. Anna A. Peck, inspector. The affairs of the corps were found to be in most excel-tent order, and the local officers were highly complimented in speeches made by several of the visitors.

A number of the residents of Hillsdale have formed a "Better Government Club," as distinguished from the widely extended movement in the north called "Good Government," and have elected as an executive committee to serve for the ensuing year Rev. Other violations of law, if any shall exist, will be taken up as they occur, and the evidence necessary to secure conviction laid before the proper authorities." Speaking of the Green case, the commuteeman said that "if the present grand jury shall fail to indict Mr. Green the committee will do everything in their power to have the grand jury which shall be in existence six months hence take up the case. Biliousness and the Liver

All about us are the conditions that lead to unrest, over-excitement and exaggerative exertions. The man in business, politics, the professions or the work shop is pressed beyond his natural physical or mental capacity in his desire to keep himself up with the times and to rise before his fellows. He keeps up this busy, exciting life for a few years, then he feels that he is "not exactly himself." He has palpitation of the heart, buzzing in the ears, an ugly taste in the mouth, tingling about the edge of the tongue, becomes restless, drowsy during the day, but all drowsiness disappears when he goes to bed at night. He is "not sure" about his stomach and has vague and chatging pain through the legs, back, shoulders and heart. At last he reaches a point where something must be done. He buys Dr. Bunker's liver regulator, and, receiving no benefit, consults the family doctor. The general practitioner tells him that he has "liver trouble," is "run down" or needs a tonic; only a billious attack. The doctor's advice and prescription are of only temporary benefit and the patient is in despair. What is the condition in reality? Manifestly the nervous energies are exhausted. The nerves supplying the digestive tract are too weak to perform their functions. What should he do? Consult the specialist. There is in our city a specialist with a reputation as big as the world. His opportunities for the observation and study of these diseases have been superior to those of any other living physician. Dr. R. A. Walker can be consulted free of charge at his well-known sanitarium, 1411 Penn. ave., adjoining Willard's Hotel, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, 7 to 8 Wed. and Sat. evenings, and Sunday from 10 to 12.
